

Tsé Bii'

"WITHIN THE VALLEY" PROJECT

Motivated by community-empowered initiatives that directly partner with residents of Tsé Bii' Ndzisgaaí (Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park), we help implement off-grid sustainable living resources

The Tse' Bii' partnership is inspired by the land's beauty and its residents, who have lived within Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park for generations. The residents do not have access to running water or electrical infrastructure. Many elders have left their homes due to the daily struggles of coping with the absence of basic necessities that most of us take for granted. Those remaining continue to face the challenges of living without life's essentials: electricity for lighting and heating, running water for bathing and cooking, inadequate roofing for protection from the elements, refrigeration for food and medicine storage, and indoor toilets.

Tsé Bii' Project makes sustainable living standards acceptable by fundraising and installing essential resources such as compost toilets, refrigeration, solar energy, water tanks, etc. These resources ensure accessibility unique to each resident's home and needs.

Help us support sustainable living and ensure the legacies of the residents of Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park.
