

Annual Report 2023

Prepared By:
TSÉ BII' PROJECT

THIS ANNUAL REPORT IS DEDICATED TO

The residents of Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park and the Navajo Nation. We also dedicate this annual report to our volunteers, donors, and supporters.

The work has just begun and it is our mission, our promise, to fundraise and install sustainable off-grid resources into the homes of the Monument Valley residents.

Our mission 01

Tsé Bii': Within the Valley (pronounced 'ti'és É bi) is a nonprofit organization working to support sustainable living by fundraising and installing off-grid equipment, such as solar power, refrigeration, access to reliable water sources, composting toilets, and showers to the Navajo residents of Tsé Bii' Ndzisgaili (Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park).

To complete our mission, we first assess each Monument Valley residential home and what kinds of appliances and housing equipment they need. We raise funds through crowdfunding, donations, sponsorships, partnerships, and grants.

Our installation process is divided into two phases. The first is The Pilot House, a home requiring the complete housing equipment package. Our pilot house is our proof-of-concept. The second phase is our full-scale installation, working with all the residents and community members.

02 A Note from our Leadership

DR. TOMMY ROCK, PRESIDENT

We achieved a lot in 2023 by reinforcing the foundation of our Non-Profit and programs. We met with residents and the park to ensure our work benefits the community. We started crowdfunding campaigns, project management logistics, and outreach to raise awareness and garner support for this project. We're excited to see the project coming along, and I look forward to the year ahead and what we will accomplish.

PAM DOVERSPIKE, VICE PRESIDENT

Looking back on 2023, I am beyond grateful to our group of volunteers and all we have accomplished in just under a year. At first, our mission seemed daunting, but with the hard work of everyone involved, we had a good year setting the foundation to meet the needs of the Navajo community within the park. With great collaboration, monthly meetings, convening with Navajo and park officials, and, more importantly, meeting with the residents, the vision to get solar, running water, composting toilets, showers, and refrigeration to the residents, we will forge ahead. I am proud and thrilled to reflect on what we have accomplished: forming a board, 501c3 approval, campaigns, raising awareness, meeting with the residents, and reaching out to the public for funding. We are collecting enough funds to start projects and implement the much-needed resources we take for granted daily. In 2024, I am excited to expand our mission to more people. I can't wait to see our first home completed and watch Effie smile as she can wash her hands, shower, and do dishes in her home with running water, but mostly to see her plug in a refrigerator for the first time.

FUNDRAISING 2023

This 2023 season, we embarked on a crowdfunding campaign until we received our 501(c)(3) status in November. We chose GoFundMe for its easy-to-use system and campaign management tools. We launched our first GoFundMe campaign on August 15th, targeting funds for our first phase of the project, the Pilot House. We have received a total of $14,121.00.

HIGHLIGHTS 2023

This year, we have made progress with our volunteer-based organization and set the foundation for our project and programs. We solidified a great group of volunteers, meeting monthly to structure our group, goals, and outcomes.

We secured approval from the Oljato chapter. During the summer, we met with residents from both Oljato and Kayetna chapters to seek authorization to do this work over a mutton feast. We also met with numerous residents and inspected their homes to determine what resources they needed for their household. We coordinated a plan with Park Officials and their support of the project.

With funds in hand, we initiated our Pilot House project and logistics for roof installation. We have our costs estimated for each housing product we offer. We also have interviewed numerous contractors and are confirming our new contracting partner.

05 2024 Looking Ahead

We would like to thank everyone from donors, volunteers, community members, family, and friends who have helped us accomplish all that we have done in 2023. We would not be able to move forward with our mission without the help and generosity of our supporters. As we look towards the 2024 fiscal year, our goal is to continue fundraising efforts, continue our pilot house project, and expand to our second phase. We will continue our outreach plan to recruit partnerships, sponsors, and supporters.
